

Chapter 12

Members of the Self-Study Steering Committee and Other Contributors

The development of any Self-Study document becomes a group project. North Dakota State University (NDSU) has a proud tradition of participation by a number of individuals representing as many sections of the university as possible. The initial Self-Study Steering Committee started work in January, 2003 with the charge to “Tell the truth”. The committee was also free to invite resource persons to join each working group and contribute to the process and the products.

The listings below attempt to identify as many individuals as possible that contributed to the shared ownership of the Self-Study document and the Focus Group materials that became a foundation for the Self-Study. A large number of individuals contributed in a variety of ways. Appreciation is expressed to each contributor. Without the individual and collective efforts, this document would not have been possible.
