GENERAL INFORMATION

The North Dakota 4-H Livestock Judging Contest provides an opportunity for youth enrolled in 4-H Livestock projects to enhance their livestock evaluation and selection skills. Additionally, a judging contest improves their communication and decision-making skills giving them invaluable life skills towards career development. The purpose of the 4-H livestock judging contest is to teach youth how to evaluate livestock and how to make and defend their decisions. Participants will judge classes that include beef cattle, boer goats, sheep and swine. Seniors will then answer questions from a class to evaluate their thought processes and knowledge of the species judged. Participants will then prepare sets of oral reasons and meet one-on-one with an official to describe the reasons for their class placement. Competition in livestock judging fosters self-confidence, organization, critical thinking, teamwork skills and oral communication skills. Just as important, this contest advances their knowledge of the livestock industry. This contest provides an educational program for all project members, including those who may not own a project animal.

The winning 4-H senior team will have a choice to represent North Dakota at the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest at the North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) in Louisville, KY in November or the Western National Round Up in Denver, Colorado. The second place team has the option to compete at the Western National Round Up in Denver and still compete next year at the state level to qualify for NAILE.

OBJECTIVES & OUTCOMES:

- A. Stimulate learning in animal science and agricultural industry;
- B. Youth develop positive interests and attitudes about livestock evaluation, animal science and related careers;
- C. Youth gain a base of knowledge of livestock projects;
- D. Youth will utilize skills and abilities to solve everyday situations;
- E. Youth gain valuable producer experience
- F. Reward 4-H members for knowledge gained in a subject matter area;
- G. Provide a competitive setting where attitudes of friendliness and fairness prevail;
- H. Participants will process information, analyze complex problems and make informed decisions regarding current livestock and producer decisions;
- I. Develop teamwork, self-confidence, public speaking and decision-making skills;
- J. An increased number of participants seek out higher education opportunities and careers related to animal science.

OFFICIALS:

In order to provide a rewarding experience for our youth, volunteers are key to the successful operation and efficiency of each contest. If you would like to serve as an official during the State 4-H Livestock Judging Contest, please send an email to LeighAnn.Skurupey@ndsu.edu.

1. Superintendent(s): Oversees all aspects of the contest, assists contestants and other officials. Arrange for qualified Judge(s). Publicize contest. Ensure rules are updated. Arrange for and select animals for classes. Secure other officials, supplies, and paperwork to efficiently run the contest. Establish contest on Judgincard.com and develop contest within the system. Introduces the contest and ensures the PA system is working. Works to ensure results, reasons, and classes are being conducted in a professional and timely manner. Assists in presenting awards and posting awards.
2. Moderator(s): The moderator should be knowledgeable in livestock judging procedures, guidelines, and regulations. The moderator assumes complete direction of the contest (may also be the superintendent), calls rotation of the animals and rotation of the participants during the judging phase. Gathers the official placings and cuts for tabulation.
3. Judge(s): A judge can be anyone with a strong background in livestock judging. The judge(s) will make informed decisions on the official placing for each class. Along with the moderator, they will come to an agreement on official cuts based on the difficulty or ease of placing each class. The judge(s) may or may not be used as reasons takers. Should give reasons for the class placings and official placings/cuts before the awards ceremony after the contest is complete.
4. Time Keeper: The timekeeper will monitor elapsed time for each timed rotation of stations allowing 12 minutes for each class to be judged, giving adequate time for each rotation to settle in prior to starting the time clock after each rotation.
5. Reasons taker(s): An industry professional knowledgeable in livestock. Reasons taker listens to each participant to evaluate the content, accuracy, emphasis, completeness, terminology and presentation for each class. A reasons taker should make their best effort to score consistently throughout the contest. Reasons takers will listen to the first three sets together and collectively score them, to make every attempt to maintain uniformity. Reasons takers should be on the same page when participants read off their notes (highest score allowed being 25 points).
6. Livestock handlers: Assist with moving animals around in a pen to help participant's ability to see all sides of each animal. Help transport animals from pen to pen during rotation. Help lead or hold animals if needed.
7. Group leaders: Volunteers, coaches, chaperones, agents that assist with leading each group of contestants during the rotation of classes. They are responsible for collecting cards when the class is complete from each participant. They are the only individual that participants are allowed to talk to during the judging portion of the contest. Group leaders help to ensure participants are not talking amongst themselves and report illegal behavior (cell phones, talking, cheating, etc.) to the superintendent or moderator.
8. Tabulators: Collecting reasons cards and scantrons. Helping to input reasons scores into the JudgingCard.com system. Double-checking the top ten individuals for each category.
9. Reasons room advisors: Help to ensure participants are not talking to each other and the volume of voices are held at an appropriate level for contestants to work and respect each other. Ensuring participants are not conversing with each other.
10. Hallway advisors: Beneficial in helping each participant find their way to their respective reasons rooms. Ensure participants are not conversing with each other.
11. Extra volunteers: Help with assembling and passing out lunch. May help with registration desk. May run scorecards and reasons cards to the tabulation room.
