

WE ARE PROUD

We are proud of Charlie for rocking the first three weeks of college at NDSU. Charlie has been on time to every class and has 100% attendance. He has independently located all his classes at NDSU through google maps, a skill that many staff and students are still learning. We are proud of you Charlie!

Welcome to the Herd, we are so glad you are here!

Transition and Access Program

What's Happening?

We have been busy learning schedules and creating relationships. Welcome week at NDSU was a blast. Thank you to residential life staff and all who were very inclusive in their planning. We appreciate you.

Students have adjusted very well to dorm living and the independence as they walk throughout the campus is booming. Thank you to the RA staff for their support and extra care as we adjust to dorm life.

We have found that NDSU is a BIG campus, and we have to leave earlier and plan a little differently based on where our classes are located. We are very grateful for google maps and technology.

This semester students are participating in UNIV 101 and Psych or BIO 189. We are very grateful for the professors who have provide meaningful curriculum and supported all students in their higher ed journey!

Looking Ahead

We are excited about homecoming the last week in September.

- Homecoming Week: September 25-29th
- TAP is volunteering at the Zoo: September 26th

Staff Shoutout!

Let's hear it for Jordan who has been learning the ropes with our new scheduling app and working extremely hard at creating cohesive plans for students and peer mentors to work and grow together. Your efforts do not go unnoticed and we are gratefully to have you on the team!

Seminar Class

Our transition seminar class has been busy with guest speakers and various tours around NDSU. The first week we focused on learning about the NDSU online platforms, our logins, and important information to support us in classes.

We also were able to get a personal talk about campus safety from NDSU Officers Jessie and Alex. We appreciate their time in allowing us to process and practice safety situations to generalize the information into our everyday life. We were even able to make phone calls from the blue emergency poles.

A special thank you to the nursing and physician staff at the student health center. A personalized tour, time to ask meaningful questions, and a small group walk to look at the facility was helpful in understanding how the student health and wellness center can support us when we live on campus.

"Success is not final, failure is not fatal: it is the courage to continue that counts." - Winston Churchill

We are nearing 1 month of experience under our belt for the TAP program at NDSU. We have had some bumps, surprises, and so much success. We are proud of all the NDSU Bison TAP students and are grateful for the incredible families we get to work with.

Go Bison!
