The nation faces threats: transnational and domestic terrorism, data breaches, cybersecurity issues, failing infrastructure and natural disasters. These threats are constantly evolving, requiring an educated and adaptable workforce to respond. The Homeland Security minor option is designed to prepare you to be part of that knowledgeable and nimble workforce. NDSU offers the only Emergency Management minor with a Homeland Security concentration in the region.

• Take meaningful classes. Course content applies to current events and real-world threats.
• Tailor your studies. Flexible course options allow you to pick classes that fit your interests.
• Make efficient use of your time. Some courses may count toward your major and minor.
• Complete the curriculum quickly. Core courses are offered yearly.
• Add a unique feature to your resume. Knowledge and skills will set you apart from other job applicants.
