*Please note: Eligibility requirements have changed for the 2015-16 Diversity Impact Award. The award will no longer be given to individuals. Instead, the selection committee will now only consider group nominations; examples of eligible nominees include NDSU departments, committees, student groups, etc.

Please check the specific area(s) wherein the Nominees demonstrate a significant contribution to advancing diversity through positive interactions with others and a respect and value for differing backgrounds and points of view within and/or external to NDSU.

☐ Institutional Commitment
  • Create an environment where everyone feels welcome, respected, and safe.

☐ Learning and Pedagogy
  • Develop a learning environment that guides students, faculty, and staff to think critically about social justice issues in the classroom and workplace.

☐ Research and Creative Activity
  • Engage in research and creative activity that reflect multicultural values and perspectives.

☐ Recruitment and Retention of Historically Underrepresented Students, Faculty, and Staff
  • Increase the representation of historically underrepresented populations among faculty, staff, students, and administrators.

☐ Inter-group and Intra-group Relations
  • Celebrate human differences and recognize socially constructed differences through initiatives that encourage and support the continuing interaction of diverse cultures.

Attach a typed summary and at least one additional letter of support explaining how the Nominees have demonstrated the criteria checked above and why they should be considered for the NDSU Diversity Impact Award.

Submit completed nominations by 12pm on Wednesday, February 7 to Diversity Impact Award Committee, c/o Kara Gravley-Stack, Equity Office, 202 Old Main.
