The Most Important Work That You Will Ever Do is on Yourself!

Have you ever lived through something you said you could never survive? Did you do something that felt impossible? Have you doubted your ability to endure something you think would be devastating? Have you ever looked at your reflection in the mirror and felt disconnected from the person staring back at you? If you answered yes to any of the questions above, this talk is for you. We all feel fear, uncertainty, and self-doubt at some point in our lives, and frequently, humans underestimate their ability to cope in a situation where we feel vulnerable. However, we were all created with our own healing abilities. We're equipped with power, strength, survival instincts, and growth potential from the adversity present in our lives; basically, we all have resilience. Often we rely on others to point us in the right direction when we are lost, yet, instead, we can create our own detailed map on how to access our internal networks to begin our journey to find ourselves.

DR. TAMI JOLLIE- TROTTIER

Jollie-Trottier, Misko Nudin Ikwe (Red Wind Woman), Biboonii Baaskaabi gwaniiid (Winter Bloom), Clinical Psychologist, enrolled member of Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians (TMBCI), and owner of Indigenized Behavioral Healing™ clinic, creates innovative self-healing symbolism expressed through visual art, writing, and storytelling. Her healing journey in search of Good Medicine began over a decade ago following a personal medical trauma that left her detached from herself and others. This journey led to her expertise related to Westernized and Traditional Indigenous Healing she calls Turtle Medicine™. She dedicates her career to harnessing the healing energy of creativity, cultural identity, resiliency, and leadership to mobilize those she works with to heal from trauma-related illnesses. She earned her doctorate from the University of North Dakota and now serves as an adjunct clinical assistant professor for the UND psychology department. With humility and gratitude, she acknowledges her elder Anishinaabe Wisdom Keepers, who have shared their teachings and continue to do so.
