

Blue Danube Savin Juniper

Juniperus sabina 'Blaue Donau' (Family Name)

Description: 'Blaue Donau' (also known as 'Blue Danube') is a hardy, low-growing, low-maintenance evergreen shrub. It is known for its blue-green, scale-like foliage. Ideal for rocks gardens, erosion control, and mass plantings.

Hardiness: USDA hardiness zones 4 to 7.

Natural Habitat: Central and Southern Europe and Western Asia.

Mature Size: Height: 1.5'-5'; Spread: 1.5'-5'

Form (Shape): Semi-upright.

Growth Rate: Medium.

Foliage: Bluish-green, scale-like foliage.

Texture: Medium.

Flowers: Usually dioecious, occasionally monoecious.

Fruit: Cones on recurved stalks. Ovoid and furrowed.

Light: Full sun.

Soil: Well-drained, dry soils. Suited for cold climates.

Propagation: Cuttings.

Failure Patterns: Failure is generally uncommon.

Disease and Insects: Relatively disease and insect free.

Landscape Use: Ideal for rock gardens, foundation plantings, or erosion control.

Availability: Available in trade.